The Ateneo has given me a second chance that I thought was just for better education but eventually, became a chance at a more meaningful college experience as well. With a very different environment from what I was used to, the Ateneo helped me understand my faith, hone my ideas and my opinions, open myself to different opportunities and discover that the world has so many problems and that I am capable of so many things. For being both my school and my home, I am forever grateful Ateneo.

Cheers to the morning grind, the readings, the lectures, the all nighters, the Starbucks frappuccinos, the Mules and the Pilsens, my professors, my course, and most especially to my friends and all of the conversations we've had. I am ceaselessly grateful.
