Choosing the Ateneo was definitely worth it despite graduating later than most of my batch mates. I learned to take risks because great things never come from staying within one's comfort zone. Create your own timeline of how you will live your life, focus on your own journey, and in the end, be proud of how far you have succeeded and how much you have achieved.

"If better is possible, good is not enough." (B. Franklin)
Embracing this mantra served as a reminder to unceasingly equip myself with focus, perseverance, optimism, joy, and, most importantly, faith in the Father. Year after year, I came head to head with battles of impossible academic requirements, unreasonable people, and myself. Despite being broken down, I chose to get up. Thank you, Ateneo, for the four years of a roller coaster ride. I am grateful, but more than that, beyond blessed.
