

Lilianne Clarisse T. Cariaga

MINOR IN SPECIALIZATION IN HUMANITARIAN ACTION

I've always been fascinated by the idea of how infinitely small the chances of meeting strangers are, and how people still end up crossing paths after all. Here's to all the people I came across throughout my stay, regardless if it was ephemeral or lasting. You all helped me grow. Thank you, too, Ateneo for the all-nighters, early mornings, and everything in between; the four years filled with triumphs and failures, bliss and hell. You will always be home; the ride was nothing short of magical.

Gabriel A. Contreras

Sixteen wonderful years in the Ateneo, and it is finally time to step outside the hallowed halls of this institution. The journey was difficult, but here I stand, a graduate of this university. I would definitely not have made it without the love and support of my friends and family. This one's for you, Mama and Papa.