

John Angelo M. Lugtu

MINOR IN FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

I would not be here if it weren't for the difficult classes that pushed me, the professors who inspired me, the organizations that formed me, my friends who went through all of these with me, my family who supported me, and my God who guided me through these years.
What a ride. Thank you, Ateneo.
This one is for you, Mom and Dad.

Luis Miguel S. Macababbad

Ateneo taught me that hard work can take you to places. You don't have to be the smartest or the wisest, because as long as you work the hardest, you'll definitely make a name for yourself. Ateneo taught me to value friendships, because in the Ateneo, real friends turn into family. Lastly, Ateneo taught me to never settle. Never settle for good, when you can turn into something great. For all of these lessons, I am grateful.