"If, then, I were asked for the most important advice I could give, that which I considered to be the most useful to the men of our century, I should simply say: in the name of God, stop a moment, cease your work, look around you." (Leo Tolstoy)

Transcendence. I'm beyond grateful to the Ateneo for teaching me the value of going beyond what is expected. In times of despair, transcendence keeps my head above water. It reminds me that our main objective is to help each other live in harmony and in human plurality. The call to be a person for and with others is sometimes taken for granted, but the values that my second home has imparted to me will always remind me to rise above.
