MINOR IN MANAGEMENT

Four years have passed since I came into Ateneo. In that time, I have encountered challenges that helped me find parts of myself and taught me lessons I will take with me forward in life. It was here where I met people who have influenced a big part of who I am—people I now call family. But now, the school year's about to end and so will my stay here. However, I'll never really leave Ateneo. It's become more than just another stop along the way; it's become my home—and we always come back home.

Going to Ateneo for 4 years has driven me down a path of experiences, all unique to the people and events along the way. This path is one that made me believe in the goodness and resilience of people, so much so that I have come out more than just a man for others. Coming from La Salle and then Ateneo has given me the best of both worlds, and now, rolling down this hill, with new and old friends, all I can say is: thank you. Friends and family, it's time to start our next story. ONE BIG ANIMO!
