

Samantha D. Beltran

It was a risk in itself entering the Ateneo. Four years later, Ateneo has taught me to risk everything for what is right. The lessons, experiences, and company I have had has humbled and taught me lessons I could never live without. Thank you to my family who has done everything they could to support me. Thank you to everyone who has made the past four years memorable and has urged me to be the best version of myself. I will look back someday and know that I was at my happiest.

Danielle Ann Camille T. Bibera

Dan is a visual person. Don't let the high-grade glasses fool you! She loves to see. Sometimes it's seeing a great film and appreciating the cinematography, or seeing through lenses and taking photos. She loves creative design and even more creative ads. Above all else stands adventure, a new experience, and the thrill for travel. Those two beautiful eyes of hers make this world one breathtaking adventure--it's too bad none of us get to see it like she does. (J. Malferrari)
