

Carla Isabelle P. Buenaobra

Crossroads (noun)

(1) an intersection of two roads.

(2) a point that called for my crucial decision, which brought me to Ateneo—the home to my treasured memories and insightful experiences.

Domijoe B. Bulan

Some meetings are required like Jim was. 3 years ago, he was assigned to be my mentor. Today, he's my best friend. He showed me how gentleness is a strength, reminded me that even the darkest corners of who I am are as valuable as the smile I carry. It's as if he knew who I was, who I can be, even when I didn't. I learned a love that goes beyond one's self, that finds completion in an other, for another. Why we met may have been destiny but how we stayed and will continue, is a blessing. (T. Uy)