

Nathania Kristina B. Rockwood

Nathania Kristina B. Rockwood is one of the strongest, most hardworking, and caring people I know. The Nat I knew back in freshman year has grown into a blooming young lady, ready to take on the world. Ateneo has taught her to be an ambitious and independent woman and to never be afraid of what's ahead of her. Ateneo has also taught her to be passionate about life—her future, her family and her friends. If there's one person you can always count on, Nat will for sure be there. (L.A. Tomas)

““Knock, knock.” “Who’s there?”
“Aikecon (pr. Icon)” “Aikecon who?”
“Aikecon make it through the rain...”

Fay, or Aikecon to some, is most remembered by this ability to crack a joke out of nowhere. She makes an effort to maintain a positive energy around others, and people always find her funny – or so she says. Beyond the jokes, however, one sees the passionate heart of a leader who gives everything for the benefit of others and makes a difference even in the simplest of means. (F. Decangchon)
