Sometimes things just fall into place. This is what Ateneo has taught me, and I'm sure will still be teaching me as I recall the delightful years spent in this campus. We may sometimes be caught up with all the fast-paced days where our to-do list does not seem to have an ending - and yet these items on my list are the things that I value the most. My last couple of months as an Atenean are what really made me pause and appreciate how each moment through those years has lead to where I am now.
