MINOR IN LITERATURE (ENGLISH)

We came into the Ateneo tasked to discover. I came into the Ateneo uncertain; overwhelmed by the possibilities of what I could do, and who I could become. I now leave the Ateneo having found a part of myself. I discovered the gift of opening my heart to the world. I leave having discovered this endless love towards others, and towards myself. It's now time to put this map away, far as it has gotten us. We must now create a new one, showing not where we've been, but where we might go.
