Through the years, I have learned to live, love, and give unconditionally. I also have learned the value of hard work in the midst of despair.

I owe the most thanks to God, who got me through the four years. He stuck with me when I was stressed and crabby. He never failed in His boundless grace and love.

Remember these years, Deb. These were the years that you discovered that not compromising yourself or your relationship with God was the best decision you made in your life.

We did it!
