MINOR IN ECONOMICS

As you reminisce through the roads that you once traveled to get to where you are now, remember the smiles and tears. Remember the faces that shared those memories with you, for they are the ones who thrived with you through the good and bad. Hold on to the bitter days that made all the sleepless nights worthwhile. Now, look back to the first day that you set foot in college. You were scared because of all the uncertainties, but look at you now, and who you can become. So smile and carry on.
