

Patricia Andrea A. Singson

MINOR IN DEVELOPMENT MANAGEMENT

Since I can't summarize the entirety of my college experience in 500 characters, here's a quote to attempt this feat: "'Though we live in a world that dreams of ending/that always seems about to give in/something that will not acknowledge conclusion/insists that we forever begin.'" (B. Kennelly, Begin)
Thank you Ateneo for the incalculable lessons. It has been a wild, transformative, and tear-filled four years. But wonderful and enlightening nonetheless. Onto the next step. #OBF

Catherine Ann A. Soria

The soil will not always be perfect, but you have to plant your seed. If you wait for the "perfect" soil, you will never plant your seed.