“Everything you can imagine is real.” (Pablo Picasso)

My Ateneo journey started out on a rough path. I constantly pressured myself to live out what people expected Ateneans to be—intelligent and eloquent. I tried my best to live up to those standards, but it was never enough. But then came my friends, who, with their unending support and encouragement, drove me to realize to always be myself and to never give up. To my “SASSy” and “Japan Nation” friends, whom God has destined me to be with, thank you from the bottom of my heart.
