

Rainard Jerome R. Yap

“I believe maybe if I learn enough small things, I can maybe change a lot of big things.” (H. Harris)

People often have the impression of Rainard being quiet and reserved, but those close to him know how lighthearted and amusing he can be once he warms up to you. When passionate about something, whether it be shoes, poetry, or memes, Rainard never fails to share what’s on his mind. Rainard has grown much through these 4 years, but one thing that remains is his continuous strive for greatness.

Dyan Tiffany D. Yu

The warmest, comfiest, and safest place to be is in Dyan’s hug. No one else can express care, security, and support like she does; it’s the kind of friend she is—the kind of person she is. She’s afraid of pain and failure (and empanada) like the rest of us, but she forgets all fear, even herself, for the people she loves. Lucky are the few who have known her when she slept through classes and have witnessed her grow into the HR Queen of MEcO that she is today.