MINOR IN PHILOSOPHY

My Ateneo journey was a journey of MAGIS—not through straight A's or countless orgs, but something much more. It was a journey of self-emptying: tiring nights of acads, orgs, and making time for friends and family, but more than that, it was a journey of self-fulfillment: picking myself up from every failure, cherishing every success, and finding my place in this world. Today, that journey culminates in self-giving. I go down the hill ready to do more and be more, wherever and however I'm needed.
