

Maria Danielle Riyana B.
Jardin

I'm a forgetful person. When I make choices, I try to think of everything but I always end up forgetting something. One of the things I'm thankful for forgetting is fear. Fear of the uncertain has been my enemy for as long as I can remember and after entering Ateneo, I seem to almost always forget it. So here's to forgetting all the fear and the pain that life throws, because with forgetting, I learned how to fight. I'm a forgetful person but I will never forget this. OBF. Always.

Joseph Yitzhak F. Jayme

Brittany is panoptic in her knowledge of all things pop-culture: a walking almanac of the history of famous families, North American sports, and most evidently, English literature. Of all the things she knows, however, the most important is beautifully manifested - the art of being a good human being. A true person for others, someone who chooses to teach in orphanages in her spare time without any recognition or exulting, she is the unsung, everyday hero we ought to strive to be. (K. Mitschiener)