

John Haynes L. Figueras

The Ateneo has been my second home for the past 16 years. It has been a tough journey of discovering new experiences, meeting people, and balancing school work with personal life. As I go down the hill, I will surely miss the entire campus and the people I've encountered in it. This institution has not only taught me about MAGIS and cura personalis, but also instilled the values of what a true Atenean should have. I will forever bleed blue. Thank you, Ateneo!

A message to my older self (and I know it's cliché but, who knows? I might need it):

1. Don't ever think you can let me down. I hope you've finally learned to forgive yourself by now.
2. Always be sincere and authentic. Take care of yourself and never forget to appreciate those around you.
3. And if the ocean of life leads you to somewhere unexpectedly far out, remember it's okay to take a break from it all and just. start. anew.
4. I love you.

PS: You're welcome, oldie.
