

Guilberto Andre A. Ulep

Pia is the kind of person you'd want to keep in your pocket, tucked away so she would never get hurt, because she's too good for this world. But here we have a dilemma, for how could you deprive the world of such a brilliant mind and a beautiful soul? For many people, the world is a better place because of you, your humor, and your kind heart—remember that as you move on to another chapter of your life. Continue shining bright, Pia, and don't ever let anyone dim your light.

Victoria Anne Urrutia

A dream. My Ateneo journey started out as a dream. Four years ago, it became a reality, and now it is a reality that's coming to an end. Cheers to the four years of late nights and early mornings, coffee runs and house parties, driving to school early just to secure a parking spot, enduring traffic just to get home, and finding some of my most favorite people in the world. Thank you for destroying me only to build me up again, Ateneo. Down from the hill I go.