

Karin Shana C. Bangsoy

Entering Ateneo, they told me to “find your calling.” True enough, it was here that I found glimpses of ‘callings’: from theories and classrooms to communities and mobilizations. I have found that there are many things you can fight for, but only so many things you can live for. Now, as I leave, the advice my dad gave me was that “it takes a lifetime to perfect a calling.” Maybe I haven’t found it completely, but Ateneo has shown me where to look – and for that, I will be forever grateful.

Jose Zacarias Noel L. De Castro

MINOR IN HISTORY

Read your readings and read them well. Keep reading even if the semester has ended. It is not only about passing the test. What matters is developing the competence for the destiny you decide for yourself.