

Mia Isabel R. Gener

The past four years of college allowed me to be reacquainted with myself again. This self I've gotten to know has been abundantly gifted with talents and abilities I never knew I had. Love's masterpiece in progress, the self I have gotten to know has grit, tenacity, and strength – she is one who graciously stands up after a fall.

I can't believe I've underestimated her for so long.

Thank you, Ateneo, for opening doors for her. Thank you for helping me with getting to know her even more.

Brittany J. Go

MINOR IN EDUCATION, LITERATURE (ENGLISH)

Brittany is panoptic in her knowledge of all things pop-culture: a walking almanac of the history of famous families, North American sports, and most evidently, English literature. Of all the things she knows, however, the most important is beautifully manifested - the art of being a good human being. A true person for others, someone who chooses to teach in orphanages in her spare time without any recognition or exulting, she is the unsung, everyday hero we ought to strive to be. (K. Mitschiener)