MINOR IN LITERATURE (ENGLISH)

Anne was the lifeline I needed in my college life. This woman who could cram a term paper in a few hours and still get an A, with 9 hours of weekly choral training after classes. She was someone I looked up to because, even with all the stress, she still managed to make time for me and her friends. She was my stress reliever and my human planner. She's the best friend and colleague who kept me sane all four years of hell. Without her, I doubt I'd have made it as far as I have now.
