

Ryan Alfred A. Suapengco

Every morning for the past four years, I would wake up to the beautiful campus of Ateneo. I see the clear blue skies, the fluffy clouds that pepper it. I see the acacia trees from times long gone; I watch as the wind gently rustles their small, coin-sized leaves. I then remember all the exams and deadlines, and then cry and go back to sleep. Despite all that, Ateneo will always be more than just a school—it will always be my home. #trueblue

People in college that changed my life:

- The Meritxell Girls
- The New Beginnings Girls
- Block Y1
- Tugon Ateneo
- My professors

For them, I have nothing but gratitude and love.
