

Cassandra Grace L. Lim

Cheers to the small things—meeting new seat mates at the start of every semester, hearing professors' voices droning on and on, and the daily complaints about early morning training that eventually became the big things: lifelong friendships, practical lessons beyond the confines of the classroom, as well as podium finishes in the UAAP. It was fighting the small fights that made me win the big fight. And that has made all the difference.

Margarita Inez N. Ma.
Guerrero

I've complained about the lack of mais con hielo on campus for four whole years, and only in my last year did I learn that they actually sold it in ISO. It was a glorious experience. Don't be afraid to explore because when you do, you might just find what you've been looking for.