MINOR IN JAPANESE STUDIES

Although I might not remember most of the concepts learned or thesis statements memorized, my time in Ateneo taught me something greater-- to value friendships over connections, life lessons over grades, and principles over security. Most of all, I learned to be unapologetically myself-- more secure in my own identity and principles than ever before. We will all grow old and venture different paths, but it is my hope that we never forget who we are and where we all started.

MINOR IN INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

I found the best version of myself during my stay here in the Ateneo.
