

Jhon Aive Bernard P. De Jesus

8 years in Judo. 14 years in Ateneo. The rest of my years living with what these have taught me.

My stay in Ateneo has been full of paradoxes. It is the place where I lost yet found myself—a place where I experienced much suffering yet found true joy. “Growth is painful” is how I would sum up my journey. With the different classes I’ve taken, the friends I’ve formed, and the professors I’ve been mentored by—all of them taught me to embrace my brokenness— my real, vulnerable self. This allowed me to heal, to grow, but most of all, to love without boundaries.
